News&Notes

Mickelson Comfortable in Making Defense

Phil Mickelson won the 2007 PLAYERS Championship on a refurbished golf course. When he returned to the site of his victory, he saw a more difficult course this week.

"It's going to be how I think it was envisioned when the redesign was done, where the course was designed to play hard and fast," Mickelson said.

Dry, warm conditions and another year of maturity contribute to the more difficult course.

"I think the changes make a big difference for me because in the past the short game was not as integral an element in this tournament," Mickelson said. "The (high) rough around the greens (prior to 2007) was so difficult that it was the same for everybody. Now there are so many mown-out areas where you can chip, you can putt, you can lob it. It's a tough challenge around the greens, but skill is a big part of it."

Another new look Mickelson is enjoying this year is the tickets. Each day's ticket has an illustration of Mickelson, drawn by Chris Duke, featuring a replica of Mickelson's autograph (see above right).

"It's awkward to see your mug on tickets, but it's cool," Mickelson said.

First Timers

While Fred Couples is playing in his 24th PLAYERS Championship this week, the most appearances of any player in the field, 14 players from eight countries will be competing in THE PLAYERS for the first time.

Leading the way are seven Americans – Ryan Armour, George McNeill, John Merrick, Jeff Overton, Kevin Stadler, Nicholas Thompson and Johnson Wagner. The other seven first-timers are Soren Hansen (Denmark), Richard Johnson (Wales), Matt Jones (Australia), Andres Romero (Argentina), Richard Sterne (South Africa), Charlie Wi (South Korea) and Tim Wilkinson (New Zealand).

In the history of the tournament, excluding the tournament's first year in 1974, 23 players have finished in the top 10 in their first PLAYERS – including champions Hal Sutton (1983) and Craig Perks (2002). A year ago, Jeff Quinney and Robert Karlsson had the best finishes of the first-timers, tying for sixth, making it six consecutive tournaments that a player competing in his first PLAYERS has finished in the top 10.

Although Wilkinson knows all 18 holes come into play this week, he couldn't help himself Tuesday. "I came out here to practice the course with my coach and ended up just playing holes 16, 17 and 18. I must have played them four or five times. They're fun holes."

Stadium TV, Satellite Radio

For the first time, fans at THE PLAYERS can rent a hand-held Stadium TV set and stay tuned to what is happening on site at THE PLAYERS Stadium Course. Stadium TV enables fans to watch the live broadcast and navigate between the additional video channels, course maps, individual hole layouts and player updates. The cost is $25 daily, $45 for the weekend and $75 for four days, and they are available at the main entrance behind No. 17 (Gate P2) and near the first tee.

Complimentary all-day trials of Satellite Radio sets will be available at the main entrance behind No. 17 (P2) and near the entrance to the Stadium Village.

ABOUT THE COVER: Phil Mickelson hits his approach shot to the 18th green in the final round of the 2007 PLAYERS Championship.

HOME ON THE RANGE

What's the easiest way to tell how long a player has been on the driving range at THE PLAYERS Stadium Course? Count the number of empty water bottles near his golf bag. On Tuesday, Heath Slocum won the battle. With the May temperatures rising, and with his caddy intently watching Slocum hit ball after ball, eight empty water bottles littered the ground. Gotta stay hydrated, right?

In the days leading up to the first round of THE PLAYERS Championship, the driving range and the putting and chipping greens are the places where players gather to work on their games. One by one, the TOUR pros walk to the tent on the east end of the range, where they have a pick of the particular ball they prefer, totaling seven different brands.

But it's not all about practice. Fredrik Jacobson has stopped to pose for a picture with two fans, Mike Weir is signing some autographs and Bubba Watson is laughing and talking with a couple of men gathered around his golf bag. Meanwhile, Andres Romero's caddy is looking like a baseball catcher as he squats down to help Romero position his feet toward the target—both men bantering in Spanish. Farther down the range, equipment manufacturing reps have brought over clubs for players to try, even offering shuttles to and from their 18-wheel trailers parked at the adjacent Dye's Valley Course. A couple of agents are talking on their cell phones nearby. And Jim Mackay, Phil Mickelson's caddy, patiently waits with his man's clubs while Mickelson finishes doing his press conference in the media center.

Fans can watch the preparation from either behind the teeing area near the third tee or circle around to a tee on the opposite end of the landing area to watch players work there.

With each passing hour on the driving range, players come and players go. And as the sun climbs high into the Ponte Vedra Beach sky, the water bottles continue tumbling to the ground.

Fred Couples prepares for his 25th PLAYERS as others observe.

Club manufacturers have their trailers on site through Wednesday to help players with their equipment before the tournament begins.

J.J. Henry gets his clubs worked on early in PLAYERS week.

THE STADIUM VILLAGE

THE PLAYERS Stadium Village, an area where fans gather for an interactive experience, debuted in 2007 and will move to a more central location adjacent to the clubhouse in 2008, with a focus on the 16th, 17th and 18th holes. Fans can still attempt to hit the 17th green on a one-quarter-scale 17th hole at the UBS 17th Hole Challenge. In addition, fans can relive famous shots on the par-5 16th hole at a swing simulator and try some of THE PLAYERS' famous final putts on a replica of the 18th green. Finally, fans can have their photos taken with THE PLAYERS trophy that goes to the winner.

World Golf Hall of Fame Features Nicklaus Exhibit

Through December 2008, guests can revel in the stories behind Jack Nicklaus, one of golf's most treasured legends and the 2008 recipient of the PGA TOUR's Lifetime Achievement Award, at the World Golf Hall of Fame. Just a short drive from TPC Sawgrass, the Hall's feature exhibit, "Jack Nicklaus: Golf's Golden Champion," is the latest member-focused exhibition and spotlights Nicklaus' extensive career and life through a comprehensive collection of personal and professional memorabilia, photographs and video. The exhibition was created in collaboration with the Jack Nicklaus Museum and The Ohio State University in addition to support from Jack and Barbara Nicklaus and the Nicklaus Companies.

Guests to THE PLAYERS can also get a taste of the World Golf Hall of Fame in the tournament's Welcome Pavilion, located near the tournament entrance. The pavilion illustrates the story of THE PLAYERS itself, as well as the Hall of Fame, its members and its annual induction ceremony.

In addition, St. Johns County, home of THE PLAYERS and the World Golf Hall of Fame, is highlighted with stories and images of its tremendous golf, beaches and the historic town of St. Augustine.

The World Golf Hall of Fame is located at World Golf Village off Interstate 95 at exit 323. The museum is open Monday through Saturday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. and Sunday noon to 6 p.m. For more information or to book a vacation package to World Golf Village, call (800) WGV-GOLF or visit wgvc.com.

Ask Us

Approximately 2,000 volunteers will be on hand this week to support THE PLAYERS Championship. This group (clad in green golf shirts) plays a vital role in running all aspects of the tournament. Ron Natherson represents these volunteers as the Tournament Chairman this year. In addition, approximately 160 PGA TOUR employees will be on the grounds to serve as Ambassadors, directing spectators around the course. They can be identified by their blue golf shirts and caps.

Klauk's Corner

Fred Klauk, course superintendent at TPC Sawgrass, has been affiliated with THE PLAYERS Championship since coming to Ponte Vedra Beach, FL, in 1986 from the same position at TPC Eagle Trace in Coral Springs, FL. This year will mark his 23rd and final PLAYERS preparing the course as Klauk will retire after more than 35 years in golf-course maintenance. Klauk will be succeeded by Tom Vlach. Klauk sat down recently to discuss his tenure:

Most difficult circumstances.

The winter of 1989 and THE PLAYERS of 1990. That winter it snowed in Jacksonville and closed the entire city down. We had ice on the greens for several days. Then we had a warm spring and a lot of play. The year after that we worked with [former PGA TOUR] Commissioner Deane Beman to slow play down going into the championship. We came up with a one-week closure that allowed us to get the course pristine in 1991 and beyond.

Biggest difference between the regular course and PLAYERS setup.

How fast the greens are. Just before the tournament, when you play the course you are seeing the same conditions with the tees, fairways and rough as the tournament. But the greens don't get to tournament speed until the week of the event. They're 20-30 percent faster during THE PLAYERS.

Pink Links Helps Breast Cancer Survivors Through Golf

In early November 2007, World Golf Hall of Fame member Judy Rankin and nine other women teed off a new Pink Links experience at TPC Sawgrass. Baptist Health, THE PLAYERS Championship and the TOUR Academy at Sawgrass came together to teach this inaugural 12-week class of breast cancer survivors to use golf as a way to connect, share their experiences and continue on their journey to healing.

Rankin is a familiar name because of her World Golf Hall of Fame career and 26 LPGA Tour victories. She was diagnosed with breast cancer in May 2006 and completed treatment by August.

She swapped stories with Jeri Millard, another Pink Links participant. Millard was taking golf lessons seven years ago when treatments for the disease forced her to put the clubs down.

Over the course of a lifetime, one in eight women will hear those four scary words: "You have breast cancer." Breast cancer strikes 12.6 percent of women, and every 13 minutes a woman dies from this disease.

The free classes, which taught the basics of the game, gave them "enthusiasm for life, just to get outside. Not to be cliché," Millard said, "but it got the women back in the swing of things. Friends and fresh air ... there's nothing better than that."

The second class of Pink Links is currently underway. If you would like more information go to PGATOUR.COM and click on "Charity."

BIRDIES FOR CHARITY

More than 50 area charities benefit from the Birdies for Charity program. Monetary pledges are collected for each birdie made during the tournament, with the participant guessing the correct number of birdies made at the 2008 PLAYERS winning a fabulous getaway trip to Scottsdale, AZ. There were 1,370 birdies made at the 2007 PLAYERS and more than $161,000 was raised.

The 2007 PLAYERS and the PGA TOUR made joint contributions totaling $2.8 million to Northeast Florida charities. Since 1977, when THE PLAYERS Championship moved to Ponte Vedra Beach, FL, more than $28 million has been contributed to charitable organizations in Northeast Florida.
